- 8. Regarding claims 8,26, and 44, Katz further discloses distribution server comprises a database which stores a content item (Figure 2; Digital information files 262); and said content distribution means of said server processes the content item stored in said database in accordance with the data which specify the type of said content execution means of said portable terminal and distributes the processed content item to said portable terminal as the requested content item (col. 8 2nd paragraph; and col. 13 lines 19-64).
- 9. Regarding claims 9,27, and 45, Katz further discloses distribution server comprises a database which stores a plurality of content items (Figure 2; Digital information files 262) corresponding to types of said content execution means of said portable terminal, and said content distribution means of said distribution server selects one content item from the plurality of content items stored in said database in accordance with the data which specify the type of said content execution means of said portable terminal and distributes the selected content item to said portable terminal (col. 8 2nd paragraph; and col. 13 lines 19-64).

- 11. Regarding claim 18, Katz further discloses distribution server comprises charging means for charging a predetermined fee to a user of said client terminal or to a user of said portable terminal when the content item is distributed, and charging a fee lower than the predetermined fee to the user when the trial content item is distributed (col. 11 1st paragraph).
- 12. Regarding claim 37, Katz discloses a distribution server capable of communicating with a portable terminal including content execution means for performing operation on the basis of a distributed content item and with a client terminal (Figure 2 and 10), comprising: content distribution means for distributing the content item to said portable terminal in response to a request from said client terminal (e.g. server response to the request for digital information from the client device to the portable terminal 212 or 226; col. 13 lines 25-58).
- 13. Regarding claim 65, Katz further discloses a portable terminal to which a content item is distributed from a distribution server by use of a client terminal capable of communicating with said distribution server (Figure 10), comprising: content receiving means for receiving the content item which is transmitted from said distribution server in response to a request from said client terminal, and content execution means for performing operation on the basis of the received content item (col. 13 lines 19-58)
- 14. Regarding claim 70, Katz discloses a computer-readable recording medium on which is recorded a program applied to a client computer capable of communicating with a distribution server which distributes a content item to a portable terminal including content execution means for performing operation on the basis of the distributed content item, said program comprising: content request processing for requesting said distribution server to distribute the content item to said portable terminal (col. 13 lines 19-58).

Regarding claim 72, Katz further discloses content request processing comprises portable-terminal-specifying-data transmission processing for transmitting to said distribution server data for specifying said portable terminal (Figures 2, 8 and 10; col. 13 lines 19-64 and col. 16 last paragraph through col. 17 1st paragraph).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 16. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 17. Claims 3,4,6,21,22,39,40,42,66,67, and 73 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Katz in view of Dodd U.S. Patent 6,633,849.
- 18. Regarding claims 3,4,21,22,39,40,66, and 73, Katz discloses a content distribution system which comprises a portable terminal, a distribution server capable of communicating with said portable terminal, and a client terminal capable of communicating with said distribution server and in which a content item is distributed from said distribution server to said portable terminal by use of said client terminal; however, Katz fails to teach distribution server comprises: URL mailing means for sending an electronic mail to said portable terminal in order to transmit to said portable terminal a URL of a download page for downloading the content item, and download means for distributing the content item to said portable terminal, in response to access to the URL, by said portable terminal, and said portable terminal comprises content obtaining means for accessing the URL of the download page transmitted from said distribution server in order to download the content item.

Dodd teaches distribution server comprises: URL mailing means for sending an electronic mail to said portable terminal in order to transmit to said portable terminal a URL of a download page for downloading the content item, and download means for distributing the content item to said portable terminal, in response to access to the URL, by said portable terminal, and said portable terminal comprises content obtaining means for accessing the URL of the download page transmitted from said distribution server in order to download the content item, and content request means of said client terminal comprises address transmission means for transmitting to said distribution server a mail address of said portable terminal to which the URL of the download page is to be transmitted by means of an electronic mail (Figure 5; and col. 11 lines 41 through col. 12 lines 13).

It would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to incorporate to Dodd's teaching into Katz's method to provide the intended recipient email address and send an URL link to the intended recipient for downloading the content, because by making extensive use of e-mail because it is fast, flexible, and reliable.

19. Regarding claims 6,24,42, and 67, Katz discloses the data transmitted by said portable-terminal-specifying-data transmission means of said client terminal, and direct distribution means of said distribution server transmits the content to the portable terminal; however, Katz fails to teach the use of mail address of the portable terminal to transmit the content item.

Dodd teaches distribution server use of mail address of the portable terminal to transmit the content item (Figure 5).

It would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to incorporate to Dodd's teaching into Katz's method to provide the intended recipient email address and send an URL link to the intended recipient for downloading the content, because by making extensive use of e-mail because it is fast, flexible, and reliable.
